CREATIVE HAVEN

FOR AGENCY OWNERS + CREATIVE DIRECTORS

8 RED FLAGS BEFORE YOU HIRE A VIDEO PARTNER

Your name is on everything they do.

SWIPE ›

YOUR CLIENT JUDGES YOU, NOT YOUR CREW.

The right video partner makes your agency look bigger than it is. The wrong one shows up late, cuts corners and puts your client relationship at risk.

Here's how to spot the wrong one before you sign.

- Keep swiping for the 8 red flags

1

SLOW REPLIES BEFORE YOU SIGN.

It only gets slower after the deposit.

Three days to answer a quote request means three days on your client's revision too.

THE CHECK Send one question. Time the reply.

2

DISMISSIVE WITH YOU?

They'll talk to your client the same way on set.

Arrogant, dismissive, short with you? I'd rather hire someone great and friendly than the best in the game who's a pain to work with.

THE CHECK Get on a call. See how you connect.

3

NOTHING YOU CAN CLICK.

No portfolio. No website. No recent client work.

A reel can be cut from anyone's footage. Ask for finished client pieces from the last six months.

THE CHECK Ask for 3 recent client samples.

4

LATE ON CALLS AND DELIVERABLES.

Late on the quote? Late on set.

If the quote, script or storyboard shows up late, the final cut will too. And your client feels it before you do.

THE CHECK Set deadlines for every call + deliverable.

5

NO HOMEWORK ON THE BRAND.

Expect generic shots.

A real partner shows up knowing the product line, the channels and what the brand already posts.

THE CHECK Ask for their vision for the shoot.

6

THE PERSON WHO PITCHED ISN'T ON SET.

Ask who's shooting and who's editing.

Senior people win the job, then hand it off. You shouldn't need the boss to reach a shooter who's running late.

THE CHECK Get crew names + contacts before you sign.

7

FUZZY ON FILES AND RIGHTS.

Get it in writing before the shoot.

Revisions, raw footage, project files, music, usage. Vague now means a fight later.

THE CHECK Sign a scope of work. All of it in writing.

8

THEY HAND YOUR CLIENT A BUSINESS CARD.

A real partner works under your name.

No pitching your client. No going around you.
Your client never sees the seams.

THE CHECK Ask for references from other agencies.

ONE MORE THING

YES, I RUN A VIDEO STUDIO.

Use this list on us too.

We hire crews and creatives for our own productions, and we've been burned by these red flags too. So our team at Creative Haven works differently: fast replies, a friendly and professional team, real client work, on schedule, personalized strategy on top of production, transparency on crew and budget, and scope and deliverables in a signed contract.

A team you can trust to deliver high-quality work that's on time, on brand, and makes your client happy.
